Kensington Place is a memory care residence that exclusively serves individuals with memory loss and their families. In an effort to continually find ways to improve our residents’ quality of life, we have recently partnered with the Gladstone Institutes, a progressive organization that strives to overcome unsolved diseases—including Alzheimer’s—through transformative biomedical research.

Please join us for a virtual presentation led by Lennart Mucke, MD, who will answer your questions about the most current developments in medication for the treatment and management of Alzheimer’s. Please submit your question(s) when you register for the event. If you need more information, then call us at (650) 363-9200.
